Mexico will pay for border wall, insists Trump

(NO WE WON'T SAYS MEXICO)

DONALD Trump has insisted that Mexico WILL pay for the wall he wants to build along the length of the border with the US.

He said during a speech on immigration in Arizona that Mexico will pay for the wall "100 per cent" and added: "They don't know it yet, but they're going to pay for it."

The Republican White House candidate (below) earlier met Mexico's president and said they had not discussed who would pay for the massive wall that has been at the centre of his campaign.

But President Enrique Pena Nieto tweeted: "At the beginning of the conversation with Donald Trump, I made clear that Mexico would not pay for the wall."

In his speech in Phoenix, Mr Trump also vowed to remove millions of people living in the US illegally if he becomes president.

Apple chief slams 'political crap'

APPLE boss Tim Cook has branded his company's 13 billion euro (£11bn) bill for unpaid taxes in Europe as "political crap", maddening and untrue.

The chief executive dismissed an audit by a Brussels watchdog which found it only paid 0.005 per cent tax in 2014.

He claimed the global tech brand paid a worldwide rate of 26.1% on its earnings that year.

"It has no basis in fact or in law," the Apple chief said.

Blair: We can stay in EU

BRITAIN could still stay in the European Union if public opinion shifts away from Brexit over the next few years, Tony Blair has said.

The former prime minister said the British people "have the right" to change their minds on the result of the June referendum.

And he insisted that Remain supporters would keep up the fight to warn voters about the "costs and consequences" of Brexit.

By WENDY THOMAS
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Speaking to French radio station Europe 1, Mr Blair acknowledged that a decision to remain in the EU did not currently look "probable".

But he claimed there were several factors that might shift opinions – pointing to the fall in the value of sterling, damage to the financial services industry and car manufacturing, and an expected reduction in foreign investment in the UK.

Asked whether it was possible that opinion would move sufficiently to avoid Brexit, Mr Blair responded: "At the moment, today, it is not probable, but the debate continues and I believe it is possible."

He rejected suggestions that Remain supporters should simply accept the 52%-48% referendum vote in favour of Brexit as the final word on the issue.

"Who made a rule that we have to stop the debate now?" he said.

Asked whether the campaign to stay in the EU could continue and British people could still change their minds, he said: "We have the right."

Mr Blair said Prime Minister Theresa May had to stick to her position that "Brexit means Brexit" in order to preserve the unity of the Conservative Party.

But the former Labour Party leader added there was currently "confusion" over the way forward because "we do not know the terms of Brexit".

BRITS WANT TO BAN BURKA

COVER-UP: Islamic full-body clothing is an issue

A MAJORITY of British people want to ban the burka, according to a new poll.

The wearing of Islamic full-body clothing has emerged as a major point of contention over the summer.

A number of French towns sought to ban the wearing of burkinis, only for a court to rule that doing so was illegal.

And the wearing of full-face veils has been front and centre in the Ukip leadership race after one of the candidates, Lisa Duffy, called for them to be banned in public places.

By COLIN HURST
news@sundaysport.co.uk

A new YouGov survey suggests such a policy would have the backing of the British public.

Ban

Some 57 per cent of people said they would support outlawing the wearing of the burka, while 25 per cent said they would oppose such a ban.

Support for a ban was found to be greatest among the over-65s, with 78 per cent backing prohibition and 12 per cent against a ban.

Opposition was strongest among 18-24 year olds, with 40 per cent against a ban and 34 per cent in favour.

The research also found that women are about as likely to support a ban as men.

Meanwhile, 84 per cent of people who voted Ukip in 2015 said they would support a ban – compared with 66 per cent of Tory voters, 48 per cent of Labour voters and 42 per cent of Lib Dem voters.

On the specific issue of the burkini, 46 per cent of people said they would support a ban compared with 30 per cent who said they would oppose one.

Striking junior docs: We're not playing politics

DOCTORS have denied "playing politics" over the imposition of a controversial new contract – after Prime Minister Theresa May accused them of failing to put patients first.

The long-running dispute escalated as junior doctors announced five days of strike action during which they have pledged a full walkout, unless the contract is dropped.

The Government and British Medical Association (BMA) remain at loggerheads weeks before the imposition of the contract, which the Department of Health says will provide a seven-day NHS.

The BMA rubbished suggestions that the vote by its council to approve the strike action was a knife-edge split of 16-14, saying it is "absolutely behind" junior doctors.

Chairman Dr Mark Porter said: "There is no split – that is a made-up story."

Mrs May backed Health Secretary Jeremy Hunt (above), saying: "The BMA should be putting patients first – not playing politics.

"This deal is about a deal that is safe for patients."

But Dr Porter hit back: "I have to say it beggars belief that we can be accused of playing politics in this."

MAN SEIZED IN BANKER MURDER PROBE

A MAN has been arrested on suspicion of murder by police investigating the death of TV comedian Rob Beckett's childhood best friend.

Oliver Dearlove, 30, is feared to have been killed by a single punch after allegedly being hit by a man while waiting for a taxi after a night out in Blackheath, south-east London, on Sunday.

A 31-year-old man was yesterday held on suspicion of killing Mr Dearlove (left) and of actual bodily harm, police said.

Mr Dearlove, from Eltham, south-east London, had been in a bar with friends in Montpelier Vale earlier in the night before heading to Tranquil Vale, where they are believed to have started speaking to a group of women.

Comic Rob, 30, who leaped to fame on ITV's I'm A Celebrity spin-off show, said he was "shattered" by his childhood pal's death and made a Twitter appeal for help in finding the killer.

The suspect is alleged to have approached the group, before attacking one of Mr Dearlove's friends and then striking him at around 12.45am.

The relationship manager at Duncan Lawrie Private Bank died in hospital.

It was revealed that a post-mortem examination gave the provisional cause of his death as a head injury.

Fanny fart riddle of TV Fiona

BREAKFAST TV star Fiona Phillips has been accused of doing a FANNY FART live on the telly.

The big-boobed blonde was standing in for Lorraine Kelly on her ITV morning show on Wednesday when the incident happened.

As Fiona (above), 55, was about to start interviewing guest Melanie Sykes she started laughing.

Then she told viewers: "Oh dear, I just sat down and my inner thighs made this hideous noise. Sorry about that, Melanie."

"That was an interesting noise – I thought it was your knees," replied her interviewee.

But viewers were convinced that Fiona had made a noise with her private parts.

A Huxtable Lee wrote on Twitter: "That moment on morning television when Fiona Phillips talks about the queef she just did. LOL."

A TV insider said: "We will never know the truth but whatever caused the noise Fiona acted like a true professional."

Hermione had Cold Feet fear

TELLY star Hermione Norris admitted she had COLD FEET about the reboot of the iconic show.

Hermione, who played Karen Marsden on the ITV sitcom for six years, confessed she wasn't initially on board with the idea of bringing it back.

The 49-year-old actress (above) said she had come to terms with the fact that the show was over and done with, before its creator talked her around.

She said: "I wasn't sure a revival was such a good idea because it was so well loved and I didn't want us to undo that.

"I think it's best to keep moving forward in life. As an actor, you get used to leaving things behind and I'd put the series firmly behind me.

"But Mike Bullen, the creator and writer, rang me and persuaded me it was a good idea."

Olympian Greg: I can't have my cake and dance!

GREG Rutherford has joked that he will find it a challenge not to have his annual break – sitting around "in my pants eating cakes" – due to his training for Strictly Come Dancing.

Rutherford, 29, will take to the dance floor fresh from competing at the Rio Olympics, where he won a bronze medal in the long jump.

He said: "At this time of year I normally completely switch off for six weeks.

"I stay at home a lot, sitting around in my pants eating cakes, because I don't really get to do that the rest of the year.

"This is going to be one of the first years in a long time that I'm training through."

Greg, who won gold at London 2012, is part of the 15-strong celebrity line-up hoping to win the coveted Glitterball Trophy.

Man dies in scuba diving accident

A 43-YEAR-OLD man died in a tragic scuba diving accident while swimming with his partner's daughter.

The 12-year-old girl was airlifted to hospital but was released the following day, according to Devon and Cornwall Police.

The man, from Horsham, Sussex, is yet to be identified. He was on holiday with his partner and her three children, who are all from west Sussex.

Members of the public pulled the man and the girl from the sea at East Portholland, Cornwall, on Tuesday.

Paramedics treated the man, but he was declared dead at the scene.

The girl was taken to Derriford Hospital in Plymouth.

Tests are being carried out on the scuba diving cylinders, police said.

BINKY FELSTEAD: I'd do Strictly ...but I can't eat testicles!

CURVY: Look what the dance show will miss!

POSH totty Binky Felstead is gutted she didn't make the line-up for this year's Strictly Come Dancing.

The Made in Chelsea stunna is desperate to squeeze her curves into the glitzy ballroom outfits in a bid to take home the glitter ball trophy.

And the 26-year-old said the BBC One dancing competition is the ONLY reality show she would consider taking part in.

But Binky – whose real name is Alexandra – missed out on a call-up to the latest series in favour of stunnas Laura Whitmore, Daisy Lowe and Louise Redknapp.

She said: "If I had to pick one reality show it would be Strictly Come Dancing."

The E4 reality telly star also confessed that no amount of money could tempt her down under to take part in ITV's I'm A Celebrity... Get Me Out of Here!

Binky would be following in the footsteps of her cast mate Spencer Matthews, who starred in the last series before being booted out because of steroid use.

Binky said: "You couldn't pay me enough money to go on I'm A Celebrity...Get me Out of Here!"

"I just couldn't eat those balls."

Binky shot to fame as one of the original cast members of posh reality series MIC when the show kicked off in 2011.

SHAFTED! GIRL LOSES FLAT OVER NAKED SEX ROMP ON LANDING

A WOMAN was booted out of her flat by her landlord over a naked romp on a landing with a fella she brought home from the pub.

The landlord found the 31-year-old going at it with the chef following complaints from neighbours about the noise.

Randy pair Claire Blacklaw and John Kirkland, 26, stripped for action when she demanded a seeing to outside her front door – less than an hour after they hooked up.

Cops called to the scene found them fully dressed.

Both were nicked before shamed Blacklaw, 31, was evicted from the flat in Hamilton, Scotland.

Alcohol

Her lawyer, Kenneth Greener, told the town's sheriff court: "She can't begin to describe her embarrassment.

"She went to the pub at 8.30pm and by 10pm the case was being reported to police.

"Alcohol took hold very quickly and she has absolutely no recollection of the incident.

"She had an overnight spell in custody and lost her tenancy.

"It is not an offence she will be repeating."

By COLIN HURST news@sundaysport.co.uk

The court heard boozed-up Blacklaw's noisy sex demands to Kirkland were heard by an appalled neighbour at the block of flats.

Prosecutor Gillian Bradshaw said: "At 9.30pm the witness overheard her talking with a male in the close.

"She formed the opinion she was very drunk as she was being very loud.

"Miss Blacklaw asked the male to have sex in the close.

"He insisted they make their way into the flat, but Miss Blacklaw insisted they stay there."

Ms Bradshaw went on: "The neighbour heard the sounds of them starting to have sex and contacted the landlord.

"When he arrived he went up to the landing to find them naked and having intercourse."

Blacklaw was fined £140 for public indecency. Kirkland has already been fined £200 for the same offence.

RAUNCHY: Blacklaw had sex on the landing

Poldark: 'I'll keep my kit on'

POLDARK hunk Aidan Turner confessed he is putting up a fight to keep his kit ON in this new series.

The 33-year-old actor scored a huge female following when he stripped down and brandished a scythe for his role as Ross Poldark in the BBC One period drama.

But Aidan (above) said he is determined to keep his costume on as much as possible in the second series, based on the novels by Winston Graham, which starts this weekend.

He said: "They were trying to make me take another dip in the sea this time, but it's not in the books.

"It was in the books last time, but this time if it's not in the books, I have a good fight not to do things.

"And I'm certainly fighting the cause to keep my clothes on for this one."

Irish star Aidan is also in the running to be named the next James Bond after Daniel Craig recently announced that he would be quitting the role of 007.

Snake sex doc guilty

A DOCTOR has been found guilty of having a stash of "extreme" porn, including a video of a man having sex with a snake.

GP Cyprian Okoro, 55, stored the pics on his mobile phone, having received them via mobile messaging app WhatsApp.

They included five videos of a "grossly offensive, disgusting or otherwise obscene character" also featuring women having sex with dogs and a woman having sex with a horse, the court heard.

Okoro, of Streatham, south-west London, denied all charges but a jury at the Old Bailey found him guilty of all but two counts of possessing extreme pornography relating to bestiality.

The judge adjourned sentence to September 30.

MARIAH CAREY SIS 'IS A HOOKER'

She denies charges after undercover sting

SNARED: Alison (right) is the sister of pop singer Mariah

THE troubled sister of pop legend Mariah Carey has appeared in court charged with being a hooker.

Alison Carey pleaded not guilty to charges of prostitution after she was arrested by an undercover police officer.

The copper had posed as a potential client and responded to Alison's personal online advert, asking to meet her at a nearby hotel to complete the alleged transaction.

Fantasy

And Alison, 55, was snared after she turned up to meet the "paying customer" at the Howard Johnson Hotel, in Saugerties, New York.

The advert included two photos of her and also promised "sweet, sweet fantasy" services, which is a dig at her famous sibling's 1995 hit song Fantasy.

Alison, who is HIV positive, has had a rocky relationship with the Hero warbler for years and the pair's brother previously slammed Mariah for refusing to help Alison after she was hospitalised.

And 46-year-old Mariah's older brother Morgan Carey claimed his famous sister spends more money on her pet pooches than caring for her family.

He said: "She probably spends more on dog food than it would cost to make sure her sister gets properly cared for.

"I flew in from Hawaii when Alison was taken off a ventilator, believing she was going to die.

"Alison has desperately reached out to Mariah over and over again.

"But that's typical because the world has to revolve around Mariah and there is no room in the world apart from her."

Alison has been released from Ulster County Jail on bail and is awaiting trial.

The 28-year-old said: "It's business. I've got no issue with being sexy.

"Usually, I feel more sexy after a couple of vodkas, but I can do it when needs be. I have a side to me that is sexy."

BECK ON THE SHELF!

MOVIE BABE DUMPS BROOKLYN

TISSUES at the ready... teenage lovebirds Chloe Moretz and Brooklyn Beckham have SPLIT.

We heard on the grapevine that Kick-Ass star Chloe, 19, dumped the famous son of David and Victoria in an embarrassingly public spat.

The young pair made their relationship official in May this year after Chloe confirmed they were an item on an American talk show.

But it looks like it has all ended in tears after the celebrity couple are said to have called time on their relationship.

And if the rumours are true, it was movie star Chloe who did the dumping after sources revealed she told the 17-year-old aspiring photographer 'it's over' at a Coldplay gig in Los Angeles.

An insider said: "They were arguing with each other the whole time they were at the concert.

Snapped

"I don't know what it was about, but Chloe finally snapped and said 'That's it, it's over!' in front of the whole crowd.

"After that, they barely said a word to each other the whole night."

This isn't the first time the pair have called it quits though – and even Chloe herself confirmed that they had been 'on and off' for a few years.

But Brooklyn, who looked set to follow in his footballing dad's footsteps until he became a published photographer overnight, seems to have taken the break-up pretty hard.

Neither of the teens have tweeted about the alleged split, but poor Brooklyn's last post was a retweet of his then girlfriend's account.

Alongside a photo of their matching trainers, it said: "Couples that @adidasoriginals together stay together."

The eldest of the Beckham brood flew back to England this week after spending a summer of love in LA with his former flame.

Poor Brooklyn!

The pop princess has shed her sweet as sugar image after she admitted latest track Side by Side is about rampant SEX sessions.

The 23-year-old hit maker (right) said: "That whole song is about riding leading to soreness. Ride dick bicycle is the lyric, indeed."

Minaj raps the X-rated lyrics, which say: "This the new style with the fresh type of flow. Wrist icicle, ride dk bicycle. Come true yo, get you this type of blow. If you wanna Minaj, I got a tricycle."

Ariana sings: "You got me walking side to side."

The scorching 22-year-old is rumoured to be dating the Formula One ace, 31, after they were spotted getting cosy in Venice this week.

Barbara and Lewis have insisted they are 'just friends' – but the pair were snapped enjoying a boat ride in the Italian city before visiting a glass museum together.

Eamonn says sorry after F-word slip

THIS Morning presenter Eamonn Holmes was forced to apologise to viewers after TV star Paddy Doherty used the F-word during a live interview.

"We would like to say sorry in case you were offended by anything that was said that shouldn't have been said."

Doherty, who starred in the docu-series My Big Fat Gypsy Wedding and won Celebrity Big Brother in 2011, appeared on the ITV daytime show to discuss his eight-year-old granddaughter Margaret's wish to leave school.

Discussing his own "poor" education in his younger days, the 57-year-old Irish Traveller said he was bullied.

Rooney hooker: I've only had 10 orgasms in my life

GOOD EVANS: Helen romped with Roo

CELEBRITY hooker Helen Wood has revealed she has had less than 10 orgasms from having sex.

The 27-year-old Big Brother contestant found fame from enjoying a threesome with Manchester United footballer Wayne Rooney.

But despite earning a living from bonking, she confessed the actual act itself rarely leaves her fulfilled.

The Manchester babe said: "Most women don't experience the big O in sex.

Delight

"I rarely do, and truth be known, I can count on two hands how many times I have.

"It doesn't bother me though. When talking with my girlfriends about sex they are baffled as to how I can enjoy nookie without being able to have the explosion of delight afterwards.

"For me, if it's good and the bloke is ticking all the other boxes, I'm dandy.

"That said, rarely does someone tick all the boxes."

Helen also warns women to beware of blokes who brag about how good they are in the sack.

She said: "Men tend to think they're some kind of porn star with magic fingers.

"And those who brag to their mates nearly always turn out to be lame. True story."

But Helen has a solution to her non-climaxing shags – use sex toys.

She added: "I could never be in a relationship where our sex life was textbook, predictable, hence why toys do come in handy.

Intercourse

"As much as I've happily gone without intercourse for months, years even, I still have to have one of my trusty pals on hand to keep me company.

In fact, I don't think they get the credit they deserve, or the inventors don't.

"I'd like to take this moment to thank whatever genius it is out there who came up with such a treat for us mere mortals, you've helped us through some tricky times!"

New scare on Alton Towers rollercoaster

THRILL-seekers were left stuck on a rollercoaster at Alton Towers which crashed 15 months ago, seriously injuring five people.

The theme park visitors were on the Smiler (above) when there was a "temporary stoppage".

Nobody was injured, a spokeswoman said.

The £18million ride at the Staffordshire attraction smashed into another carriage on June 2 2015.

Five people were seriously injured in the incident and an investigation found that a computer block stopping the ride because of a stationary car on the track had been over-ridden by staff, causing the crash.

As a result, the full carriage ploughed into the rear of the empty car, leaving two women needing leg amputations.

Merlin Attractions Operations Ltd admitted a breach of health and safety rules over the incident.

'ESCORT GIRLS IN £1.2m SEX FOR SALE RACKET'

ACCUSED: Lilly Anne Harrison denies the charges

FIVE people have gone on trial over an alleged £1.2m prostitution racket said to have masqueraded as an escort agency.

Prosecutors say Liverpool's Candy Girls raked in at least £950,000 and forked out £250,000 on adverts over a six-year period.

By CLAYTON HYDE
news@sundaysport.co.uk

They allege that brothers Leon and Karl Jackson masterminded a scheme run with Leon's wife Andrea Stott and Karl's ex-girlfriend Lilly Anne Harrison.

A fifth defendant, Martin Whiston, 46, is accused of being a driver who "ferried the girls to their appointments".

Prosecutor David McLachlan told Liverpool Crown Court: "All of the defendants in this case knew what the business was about, namely the provision of sexual services."

He said a website for the agency was set up in 2006, when the designer dealt mostly with Leon, 34, but also spoke to director Karl, 33.

When police searched the home Karl and Harrison, 38, shared in Speke they discovered Candy Girls advertising cards.

Mr McLachlan said the agency's website, showed "at a glance" what sort of business it was, adding: "You see the names of Jamelia, Eva, Toni and Tiffany, dressed to thrill, some may say."

Deposits

Mr McLachan said Candy Girls spent "a vast sum" on adverts to try and boost profits, with Leon acting as an account holder and Karl providing photo IDs.

Accounts connected to the brothers, company secretary Stott, 32, and receptionist Harrison, showed deposits of around £850,000 and cash deposits of around £100,000.

The barrister said: "The advertising had the desired effect. The money rolled in."

An undercover police officer rang the Candy Girls number in July 2013 and spoke to a woman who told him it was £135 for the first hour for a "girl" and £100 for every hour thereafter.

The officer recorded a later conversation when he said he wanted girls to perform specific sex acts – referred to in code – and was told this was at girls' "discretion".

In a police interview in 2014 Karl said he ran a "companionship service" and never suspected the girls had sex with clients.

Leon Jackson, Andrea Stott, Karl Jackson and Lilly Anne Harrison, all of Whiston, and Martin Whiston, of Swansea, all deny controlling prostitution for gain and money laundering.

The case continues.

Rowling in new attack on Corbyn

HARRY Potter author JK Rowling has renewed her attacks on Labour leader Jeremy Corbyn, warning his leadership is helping the Conservatives and risks destroying the party.

She provoked a storm of criticism this week after expressing her dismay on Twitter at polls showing Corbyn is set for victory in the leadership contest with challenger Owen Smith.

After being branded a "filthy liberal", "out of touch" and "on the bad list of celebrities", she issued a message to leftists who compared the Labour leader with the head teacher at Hogwarts: "Corbyn. Is. Not. Dumbledore."

On Thursday, she responded to critics who accused her of opposing Corbyn because she feared he would put her taxes up.

"I already pay full tax. I have nothing to fear from Corbyn except the destruction of the Labour Party," she wrote.

Rowling has long been a supporter of Labour, giving the party £1million when Gordon Brown led it.

Brit Film festival brings big stars

OSCAR hopefuls La La Land, The Birth Of A Nation and Snowden are among the movies to be screened during the 60th BFI London Film Festival.

Hollywood stars including Nicole Kidman (above), Amy Adams, Jeremy Renner and Lupita Nyong'o will all travel to the capital next month for red carpet premieres.

The festival will open with A United Kingdom, British director Amma Asante's film about the real-life story of love between the King of Bechuanaland (now Botswana) and a London office worker in 1948, starring David Oyelowo and Rosamund Pike.

Director Nate Parker will bring The Birth Of A Nation, an account of the life of Nat Turner, a slave who led a revolt in 1831.

Damien Chazelle's La La Land stars Ryan Gosling and Emma Stone and is a love letter to the golden era of musicals.

And Stone returns with his film about hacker Edward Snowden.

'£17M COCAINE HAUL OF WORLD'S SEXIEST SMUGGLERS'

COVER: Roberge and pal Legacé acted normal

TWO women dubbed "the world's sexiest drug smugglers" have been arrested with allegedly £17million worth of cocaine.

Melina Roberge, 22, and Isabelle Lagacé, 28, were on a luxury cruise ship off the coast of Sydney Australia when they were held.

The sexy pair had documented their lavish global trotting adventure on social media.

On their Instagram accounts the Canadians posted pictures of their round the world travel on the MS Sea Princess, a luxury liner operated by California-based Princess Cruises.

But all the time they were allegedly hauling 'commercial quantities' of the Class A drug.

The glamorous pair, along with their co-conspirator and fellow Canadian Andre Tamine, 63, have been charged with trying to smuggle 200lbs of cocaine into the country.

By CLAYTON HYDE
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Seizure

The luxury cruise, costing around £11K, started in Britain and toured the U.S. and South America, including Colombia and Peru, before sailing to New Zealand and then Australia.

The haul was the largest seizure in Australia of narcotics carried by passengers of a cruise ship or airliner, Australian Border Force boss Tim Fitzgerald said.

The three did not enter pleas when they were charged in the Sydney Central Local Court with importing a commercial quantity of cocaine.

They face life sentences if they are convicted.

They will remain in custody until their next court appearance on October 26.

Roberge and Lagacé's social media accounts are awash with exotic snaps from the alleged drug run, including pictures of their pair drinking from coconuts on a white sand beach.

Other posts show the duo riding quad bikes through a desert, hiking in Peru and exploring beach caves in their bikinis.

A police insider said: "They thought being glamorous would help them smuggle the drugs.

"All the Instagram snaps are a deliberate red herring trying to prove how normal they are.

"They may be the world's sexiest drug smugglers but that won't keep them out of prison."

The suspects boarded the ship in Southampton. Police are investigating whether they had the drugs with them when they got on or sourced them from one of the South American ports the ship visited on its way to Australia.

Weekend Sport NUMBER 1 FOR TV BOOBS

Bucket babes bared!

There's a BUCKET load of boobs in this brand new take on an old favourite.

Bristol-born Kerry Howard landed the role of Hyacinth Bucket in a brand new show called Young Hyacinth.

The one-off episode is a prequel to the much-loved classic sitcom Keeping Up Appearances, which starred Patricia Routledge as an eccentric social climber.

Kerry, 34, ditched her clothes and flashed her assets in comedy series' Him & Her, alongside Russell Tovey, and Give Out Girls.

Lovely Bad Girls star Debra Stephenson, 44, also stars in the one-off special – and here she is with her baps out in 90's sitcom Playing The Field.

Young Hyacinth, Friday, BBC 1, 9.30pm

Goodnight sweet parts!

THESE cracking boobs are back on the box thanks to the return of classic sitcom Goodnight Sweetheart.

The show is back for a one–off special as part of the Beeb's Landmark Sitcom Season and sees Nicholas Lyndhurst revive his role as time-travelling TV repairman Gary Sparrow.

Emma Amos is back as Gary's ambitious wife in the present, Yvonne, and the 49-year-old actress previously bared all in 1988 flick Rowing With The Wind.

And Elizabeth Carling, 48, – who flashed her norks in Border Café – returns as Gary's second wife, pub barmaid Phoebe, who lived in the same area during the Second World War.

Malaria hit Charlie now back in UK

TV presenter Charlie Webster who "nearly died" after contracting a rare strain of malaria in Brazil has arrived back in the UK for further treatment.

Charlie, a former anchor for Sky Sports News, was flown home on a specialist plane with a team of medical professionals who cared for her during the 20-hour journey.

The 33-year-old is in a serious but stable condition, and will now continue her recovery in a private ward at St James's Hospital in Leeds.

Speaking from her hospital bed, Charlie said: "The last few weeks have been hell.

"I'm so grateful to the staff at Copa D'or hospital in Rio for the care I received, they saved my life.

"I have the most wonderful family and friends supporting me and the well wishes from the public has been incredible … I'm happy to be home."

Webster had just completed a 3,000-mile cycle ride from London to Rio de Janeiro when she was taken ill during the Olympics opening ceremony.

You gotta laugh!

THERE was a prison break and I saw a midget climb a fence. As he jumped down he sneered at me and I thought, well that's a little condescending.

Jim, 67, lands major Game of Thrones role

BRITISH actor Jim Broadbent has been revealed as the newest cast member to join Game Of Thrones.

The 67-year-old will appear as a "significant" character in the seventh and penultimate season of HBO's hit fantasy drama series when it returns in summer 2017.

Broadbent's career has spanned more than four decades and has seen him win a Best Supporting Actor Academy Award for Iris and the Bafta Award for Best Supporting Actor for Moulin Rouge!

He also lifted a Best Actor TV Bafta for popular drama Longford.

He is also known for his roles in the Bridget Jones's Diary movie series, the Harry Potter films, Hot Fuzz, The Iron Lady and Time Bandits.

The latest series of Game of Thrones will begin filming soon in locations including Iceland, Spain and Northern Ireland.

The eighth and final season is expected to follow in 2018.

Man's milky relief for cock 'n' balls agony

A MAN was caught naked by cops in a petrol station forecourt rubbing MILK into his cock and balls.

The man was writhing in agony and screaming for help when police arrived at the gas station in British Colombia.

He told them he had been attacked by three strangers who had sprayed bear spray down his trousers.

The spray is made of highly potent chilli powder and is used to stop the huge creatures attacking people.

Cpl Don Wrigglesworth, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, said: "He was in excruciating pain and vigorously using his shirt to scrub his genitals with homogenized milk in an attempt to relieve the pain."

Police believe the man was carrying his own can of bear spray and it went off "unintentionally".

10 TOP-EARNING CATWALK BABES BARED

IT'S no wonder these gorgeous models draw in the big bucks – as they're all more than happy to flash their KNOCKERS.

The boobs-out beauties have been named as the 10 highest earning models of the last year, with Brazilian Gisele Bundchen topping the list.

The 36-year-old scorcher, who is married to NFL star Tom Brady, has held the title since 2002 thanks to her stunning good looks – and raked in a whopping £23.3million in 2015.

Hot on her tail is fellow Brazilian Adriana Lima, 35, who earned more than £8m and is the longest serving Victoria's Secret model ever.

By JESS GALLEY
jess@sundaysport.co.uk

In joint third place is reality star Kendall Jenner, 20, who detached herself from the rest of the Kardashian clan to pursue a career on the catwalk, and brought in a hefty £7.6m doing it.

And Kendall's earnings were matched by her leggy pal Karlie Kloss, 24.

In joint fifth are Rosie Huntington-Whiteley, 29, who was crowned the highest paid British model in the world, and Gigi Hadid, 21, who both took home £6.8mlast year.

Fellow Brit Cara Delevingne, 24, came in a close seventh with earnings of £6.4m.

South African catwalk star Candice Swanepoel, 27, and 28-year-old Chinese model Liu Wen took joint eighth place with £5.3m each.

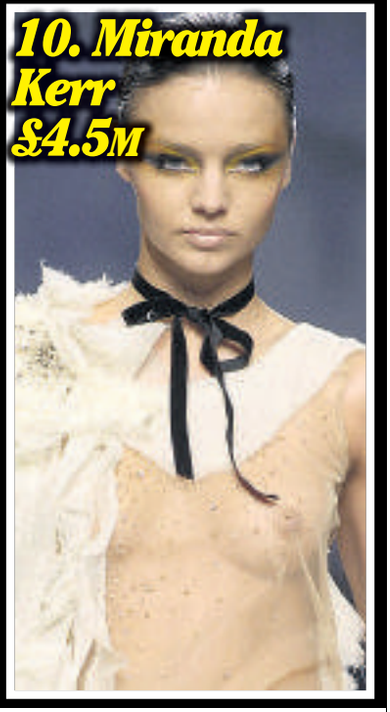
And the number 10 spot went to Aussie bombshell Miranda Kerr, although the 33-year-old could live without the £4.5m she pocketed in 2015 after she got engaged to Snapchat billionaire Evan Spiegel in July.

8. Liu Wen £5.3M

8. Candice Swanepoel £5.3M

5. Gigi Hadid £6.8M

5. Rosie Huntington-Whiteley £6.8M



10. Miranda Kerr £4.5M

7. Cara Delevingne £6.4M

Blast rocks space firm's launch site

AN explosion has rocked the SpaceX launch site in Florida.

Nasa said space exploration and technologies firm SpaceX was conducting a test firing of its unmanned rocket when the blast occurred on Thursday morning.

The test, considered routine, was in advance of a planned launch from Cape Canaveral Air Force Station on Saturday.

Buildings several miles away shook from the blast, and multiple explosions continued for several minutes. A cloud of dark smoke filled the overcast sky.

Additional details were not immediately available, but sirens could be heard in the aftermath.

The rocket was supposed to launch an Israeli satellite this weekend.

SpaceX is seeking to create a new era of reusable rockets.

Football refs banned by IS

ISIS have outlawed football referees in Syrian strongholds because they use the laws of FIFA instead of Sharia.

The UK-based Syrian Observatory for Human Rights said commanders had also drawn up a list of rules detailing how injured players can be compensated by their opponents under Sharia law.

Local sources said militants told football organisers referees would be banned because their decisions "do not judge according to what Allah has revealed" and are "a violation of Allah's command".

A system of "Qisas" for injured footballers was also brought in, referring to the retributive justice system enacted under Sharia law, where victims can claim compensation or exact revenge.

The ban came before the start of league matches.

'Giant Dildo' storm coming

THE boffins who name storms and hurricanes have been left red-faced after opening up the process to the internet.

The World Meteorological Organisation decided to let an online poll decide what to call a huge storm brewing in the Atlantic Ocean.

And true to form web users came up with an X-rated moniker for the weather systems.

Tropcial Storm Giant Freaking Dildo has gathered nearly 50,000 votes, with Douchey McAsshat and Thunderct coming second and third.

"There's something about the name Tropical Storm Giant Freaking Dildo that just works," commented one user.

The WMO will have the final say on the name of the next tropical storm.

Boffins discover secret of stiff 'uns

SWEDISH boffins have hit on the mechanism that makes ladies' nipples go HARD!

By HAZEL GROVE
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Researchers made the discovery while mapping out the various nerve cells that ferry messages around the body in times of emotional distress.

One example is when the "fight or flight" reaction takes hold and prepares us for imminent danger.

Another type of nerve hooks up with hair follicles. When activated, the nerves contract tiny muscles around the hairs, so they stand up and produce goosebumps.

The team found eight different types of nerve that carry messages for the sympathetic nervous system – the part of the body's neural wiring that makes the heart race and the palms sweat in anxious moments, but which also produces goosebumps, constricted blood vessels and hard nipples in cold weather.

Sten Linnarsson, who worked on the study at the Karolinska Institute in Stockholm, said: "We are trying to understand how we are wired up."

And to illustrate what the professor's talking about, here are some pictures of ladies displaying the phenomenon. Don't worry, it's not pervy – it's SCIENCE!

BBC iPlayer expects most to play fair

THE TV Licensing authority has said it is confident "most people will simply obey the law" and stressed it will not implement "mass surveillance techniques" to monitor those using BBC iPlayer.

Yesterday a loophole that allowed viewers to catch up with shows on the on-demand service was closed, meaning anybody wishing to use it must now confirm they have a TV licence.

Previously, only live content streamed on the service was covered by the £145.50-a-year licence fee, while those watching shows on catch-up could do so free of charge.

It had not previously been disclosed how the TV licensing body would implement the changes in legislation, although there were rumours of snooping on people's TV-viewing habits via private wi-fi connections.

But a spokesman said: "We expect most people will simply obey the law. We are not going to use mass surveillance techniques, we will simply use existing enforcement processes."

You gotta laugh!

Doctor: You're obese. Patient: I want a second opinion.

Doctor: OK, you're quite ugly, too.

Angela WHITE

By JESS GALLEY
jess@sundaysport.co.uk

RANDY Angela White confessed she can't resist the urge to BONK – no matter where she is!

Mobile hairdresser Angela loves having sex in naughty places and said the thrill of being caught just adds to the excitement.

And the 32G scorcher, from Birmingham, told us the wildest place she has ever done the deed was in a church GRAVEYARD.

Quickie

Angela, 26, said: "I met a fit bloke on a night out clubbing and we couldn't wait till we got back to his.

"So on the way we ended up nipping into a graveyard for a quickie!

"I know it sounds a bit morbid, but it was amazing because there's the thrill that you can get caught out.

"I love going for it when the mood strikes!"

Real-life Sex Lives

WE PAY UP TO £500 FOR YOUR REAL-LIFE STORY!

WHEN Kirsty Green was faced with a relationship breakdown, she found herself struggling to pay the mortgage on her own.

Realising her policewoman's salary wasn't enough to pay the bills, the 25-year-old discovered a way to get rich men to help her.

Being a sugar baby proved so lucrative that Kirsty, from Yorkshire, soon packed in her day job to become one full-time.

What's more, not only does it pay for her house, it also lets her live a luxury lifestyle involving exotic holidays, designer clothes and eating in the finest restaurants.

Kirsty tells the Weekend Sport why the sugar lifestyle is so sweet...

I gave up being a copper to be a sugar baby!

'AFTER I broke up with my boyfriend of five years and he moved out, I was stressed out. I had my mortgage, household bills, loans and credit cards and I needed to do something to keep my head above water... and fast.

I looked for a second job and I was willing to do anything to supplement my £22,000 salary – pulling pints, washing dishes, cleaning.

But I had no experience in anything other than being a police officer and no one would take me on.

Becoming involved with men who would pay me to be in relationships with them never crossed my mind until a friend inspired the idea.

One of my pals joked, 'You should become a sugar baby, it sounds like easy money'.

I started thinking, 'Wait, maybe that's an idea.'

And so I had a good look into SeekingArrangement.com, one of the largest sugar daddy dating websites.

I made an account, uploaded some sexy pictures of myself and within a few days hundreds of men had messaged me.

After a few weeks of hesitation, I bit the bullet and gave it a go.

I've since dated a variety of men – black, white, short, tall, young, old – but they're all rich.

This isn't a game to me, it's a job. I'm just doing what I have to do to get by.

I don't see anything wrong with it. Successful, well-off men know what they want, they're driven and they enjoy attractive company.

Money isn't an issue and they can afford to look after attractive women like me who need financial assistance and are looking for the finer things in life.

I'm clear that I'm seeking assistance with month-to-month expenses and I'm seeking a higher class of life.

The men make clear what they're expecting – often that's just a pretty girl with good conversation to accompany them for dinner or coffee.

Lust

Some do want sex, and that's a call I make case by case!

Business aside, genuine feelings of attraction and lust can develop.

One guy I met, an investment banker I'll call Steve, suggested we take a dip in the hot tub in a penthouse suite in a five-star hotel in London.

He was very good looking and charming and I thought, 'Why not!'

That night we did it in every position imaginable and he was a very attentive lover, spending lots of time going down on me.

I thought to myself, 'Whoa, I'm enjoying this, I'm having multiple orgasms and I'm getting something extra on top out of it!'

Some people may call it prostitution, but I choose who I sleep with and I don't care what other people think any more.

Another man I'd been seeing for drinks started paying me a weekly fee of £1,000 to give him a lunchtime blowjob in his car.

Sounds less glamorous, but for 10 minutes 'work' a day I could put my feet up all week without a care about my bills.

In return for my services, I've been bought Louis Vuitton handbags, Jimmy Choo shoes and been jetted off to luxury breaks in Hawaii, Mexico and New York.

Discretion is the number one rule expected of sugar babies, as sugar daddies are often respected community figures in high places.

So I help my daddy keep his secrets and the rewards are well worthwhile!'

'TESCO TARZAN' WAVED WILLY AT SHOPPERS

HOT: Albert Darie stripped in sun

A SUN worshipper leapt around a Tesco car park like "Tarzan" in just his underpants in front of shocked shoppers, a court heard.

Albert Darie, 35, told police "they love to see it" after a young mum complained about his bizarre show.

Romanian Darie was seen waggling his willy but claimed he'd stripped to his boxers because it was one of the hottest days of the year.

The court was told: "The victim's living room overlooks the open-air car park. She looks down and there's Mr Darie, wearing the shorts and no other underwear, swaying."

The victim, who lived behind the Tesco Express in Hammersmith, west London, drew her curtains and called police as she was concerned her two-year-old child could see.

The heard: "Police arrived and there he was, prancing around the car park like Tarzan."

By JACK ANDREWS
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Interviewed, Darie admitted he was wearing just his pants in the car park but said he was sunbathing.

The court heard how the day in question, Sunday July 17, was one of the hottest this year at nearly 30C.

Darie, who represented himself in court, said he was only on his second beer when police arrived.

"I only got naked to catch the sun, it was a very warm day," he said.

The Hammersmith man admitted intentionally exposing his genitals so that someone would see them and causing alarm and distress.

He got a 12-month community order, an unpaid work requirement of 60 hours and must pay costs £170.

He was also put on the sex offender's register for five years.

Weekend Sport POSTER BABE

By JESS GALLEY
jess@sundaysport.co.uk

KINKY Kitty Lea boasted that she is an expert in the art of THREESOMES.

The 30DD glamour model confessed she's hopped under the sheets for many a steamy three-in-a-bed romp.

Kitty, from Lincolnshire, gave us her top tips for pulling off the perfect ménage a trois – and even told us how to get your missus involved if she has cold feet.

The 27-year-old said: "I had loads of threesomes in my wild days and I think everyone should try it once.

"The trick is to make sure you pick the right people to do it with.

Kiss

"You need to share your attention between everyone and discuss boundaries beforehand.

"Like if you're allowed to kiss on the mouth and where you're going to have your happy ending.

"Some girls are really up for it, some you've got no chance with. Talk to your lady and see how she'd feel about sharing you with someone else.

"If she's up for an experience with a woman, you could just watch!"

MOTORS WITH THE PURPLE HELMET

Tyre-shredding, ear-bashing beast

WHAT CAN I GET FOR £10,000?

YEP, it'll be a left-hand drive import jobbie, not the UK-specific right-hand drive cars that stormed onto our roads earlier this year.

But to get a Ford Mustang that looks this good for just ten grand, it's probably worth having the steering wheel on the wrong side.

Then there's the engine – a 4.0 V6 with 388 bhp to shred your tyres to smithereens.

And just for good measure, fancy obliterating your ear-drums while you're at it?

You should be able to get one with the optional Shaker 500 Sound System, which will pretty much deafen everyone in the street if you really want to piss them off.

FORD MUSTANG 4.0
(2004, £9,999)

Play it safe

WHAT CAN I GET FOR £5,000?

THE Purple Helmet's missus has been driving like a proper nugget of late.

Her Fiesta's got more scrapes and dings than a boxer's hooter and it's only a matter of time before she fking bins it proper.

While she's a pain in the arse at the best of times, it'd be nice if she didn't have to go to hospital with a broken limb.

So it's about time we invested in a safer motor.

Now the Saab 9-3X may be a weird-looking thing, but it aced all tests when it comes to 'crashworthiness', particularly 'roof strength' should you roll it.

And because Saab went tits up, prices are dirt cheap.

The 1.9 litre diesel engine sounds shite, but it's turbo-charged and surprisingly quick.

SAAB 9-3X
(2011, £4,999)

Worth a punt

WHAT CAN I GET FOR £1,000?

BLOODY hell, these things have come down in price.

That's largely thanks to a complicated Wankel (hee hee!) engine that's prone to conking out in a blaze of smoky glory and is a bastard to fix.

But for this money, it might just be worth a punt – even if you only get 12 months out of it before it goes kaput.

That's because you'll enjoy 240bhp, a space-age leather interior and absolutely lovely styling.

Providing its working, the RX-8 will go like a scalded cat, too, sprinting from 0-62mph in 7.2 seconds.

MAZDA RX-8
(2003, £999)

End of an era, Sport!

NEW CAR
MEGANE RENAULT SPORT 275 CUP S
(£23,935)

LIKE when Linsey Dawn McKenzie stopped making see-it-going-in-and-every-thing pornos, some things are sorely missed.

And now we're going to have to mourn the loss of the third generation Mégane Renault Sport – after the last ever one rolled off the production line in Palencia, Spain.

Over 30,000 were produced in total, and it's a machine that's gained something of a cult following.

Swanky

The 275 Cup-S version comes with 19-inch Speedline alloy wheels with Michelin Pilot Sport Cup 2 tyres and Öhlins Road&Track adjustable dampers.

Inside there's an Alcantara steering wheel, gear lever and handbrake, Recaro Seats and a swanky performance-tracking monitor.

The Cup-S also features an uprated chassis, red Brembo four-pot brake calipers and a three-mode Renaultsport Dynamic Management system.

And the engine is a peach – a 2.0-litre, 275hp turbocharged petrol mill which, in June 2014, shattered the lap record for a front-wheel-drive production car around the 13-mile Nürburgring Nordschleife with a time of 7 minutes 54.36 seconds.

Acceleration from 0-62mph is attainable in 6.0 seconds and the top speed is an impressive 158mph.

Jeremy Townsend, Communications Director, Renault UK, said: "The Mégane Renault Sport has proved popular with critics and owners alike since launch for its focused nature and involving driving experience.

Fitting

"The UK is one of the biggest markets in the world for Renault Sport models.

"So it's fitting that the last ever third generation Mégane Renault Sport should end up here."

HONDA NC750S
(£6,000)

WE had the following request sent in by a reader, Goughy, who's got his full licence but hasn't been on a motorcycle for years.

He asks: "Getting a bike. Just want medium power, won't be doing long distances or lots of motorways. Speed not an issue, but don't want something too light that I get knocked around too much. Any ideas?"

Indeed we do.

To inspire confidence it needs top-notch brakes, power to get you out of trouble if you need it, and bullet-proof reliable.

If you've been away from biking for a bit, you're also going to want to absolutely love it.

Therefore, Goughy, buy a Honda NC750S. Looks great, goes great, it has a clever storage compartment to fit a helmet, it'll run forever. Job done.

TRIUMPH STREET TRIPLE 675
(2007, £3,500)

…..OR (see left) if Goughy doesn't have that much dosh to play with and wants a cheaper alternative, why not consider something a little meatier?

The Triumph Street Triple is an absolutely belting little bike.

Small proportioned enough to feel like you can chuck it about wherever you want it, yet with a surge of power to put a total grin on your face.

Brakes are Nissin, which means quality, and will have you stopping on a sixpence.

Meanwhile the 675cc engine – nicked out of the Daytona sports bike – has 96bhp on tap and will do whatever you want it to.

Did we mention it also sounds amazing thanks to the dual underseat exhaust pipes…?

DEUS is a blast!

DEUS EX: MANKIND DIVIDED ★★★★

IT'S when you explore the world of Deus Ex: Mankind Divided that you realise there's more to this book than its cover.

Like its predecessor, there is a hub world, and this time it's the city of Prague in a future where augmented humans – or 'Augs' – are being discriminated against.

Their segregation from the rest of society is a result of violent Aug elements, who have seemingly lost control of their humanity, performing acts of terrorism.

Playing once again as Adam Jensen, you get to experience this first hand, uncovering the truth behind these mindless acts of violence.

But, as with any Deus Ex game, there's always something happening behind the scenes. Expect to encounter familiar allies, some new ones, as well as enemies from Jensen's past.

The Deus Ex series has always done conspiracies pretty well, and Mankind Divided is no different.

Choosing Prague as the game's hub world was a good move. Its various locations really feel lived-in, while the atmosphere fits the theme of the game as well.

Tension

You're likely to find yourself ignoring the main quest completely, choosing instead to partake in Mankind Divided's various supremely fleshed-out side missions.

Not only are most of them multi-part in nature, there are side missions within side missions.

Hacking stuff is an integral part of a Deus Ex game, and you'll be happy to hear that it's back and is as good as it's ever been.

The tension of being discovered, the anxiety of managing your programs stored on futuristic floppy disks and planning your route to the final node can be almost as nerve-wracking as being caught unarmed in the town square.

The cover and shooting systems work much better this time around, allowing for rapid repositioning to gain an advantage.

Non-lethal weapons, such as the tranquiliser and stun guns, benefit from the updated shooting mechanics as well.

This game is definitely worth your time, but only if you're willing to dig deep and take the "off the beaten path" approach.

BOOKS With JON WISE

THE SIXTH WATCH by Sergei Lukyanenko (Heinemann) ★★★★

IT seems this is the last of the proper grown-up vampire series, more's the pity for the army of fans it's gathered along the way.

They won't be disappointed with this finale, though, which sees bloody murders on the streets of Moscow, the victims spelling a message to the great Other Anton Gorodetsky.

So Anton returns from teaching light magicians to take on the dark side once again. It doesn't help that the Prophets are warning that the Others, indeed everybody, are doomed. He's got to find a way of getting The Sixth Watch back together again to save all worlds.

If you've not been following the series, start at the beginning with The Night Watch – it'll devour you!

THE BOTTOM CORNER by Nige Tassel (Yellow Jersey) ★★★★

WATCHING pampered princes dive and cheat in the temples of commercialism that are today's Premier League grounds is all well and good.

But unless you've regularly stood in a windswept, sodden, tatty non-league ground cheering on your local losers, you'll never truly know what football is – a triumph of hope.

Nige Tassell spent a season studying life in these unsung backwaters and his book is a glorious tribute to it.

DI STEFANO by Ian Hawkley (Ebury) ★★★★

BEFORE the greatest footballers of all time there was THE greatest – Alfredo Di Stefano.

It wasn't enough that he was a wizard with the ball, ensuring that Real Madrid won five European Cups on the trot from 1956, the Argentine led the way in what the world expected in a player – strength, style and sublime skill. The 'Blond Arrow' played in hated dictator Franco's Spain, but helped transform not only that country but also the game itself on a global level.

DVD

CAPTAIN AMERICA: CIVIL WAR (12) ★★

MARVEL'S Captain America: Civil War finds Steve Rogers leading the newly formed team of Avengers in their continued efforts to safeguard humanity

But political pressure mounts to install a system of accountability, headed by a governing body to oversee and direct the team. Another flashy but dull sequel.

FLORENCE FOSTER JENKINS* (PG) ★★

THE inspirational true story of the eponymous New York heiress and socialite who obsessively pursued her dream of becoming a great singer.

Jenkins is played brilliantly by Meryl Streep, but her husband and manager is played by that odious git Hugh Grant.

SHARKNADO BOX SET 1-4* (12) ★★★★★

FACED with storms and battered by airborne sharks, over and over in all four sensational movies, Fin and April Shepard have survived.

The duo have to save the world not once, not twice, but four times from the ferocious sharks raining from the sky.

Brilliant!

ALBUM

GLORY* by Britney Spears ★★★★

THE toxic pinup's ninth studio album is a smooth return to form, combining her latter electro synth sound with her now trademark moans and groans.

This 17-track record is stuffed with hummable tunes and proves once and for all that the 34-year-old is a force to reckon with.

Features single Clumsy.

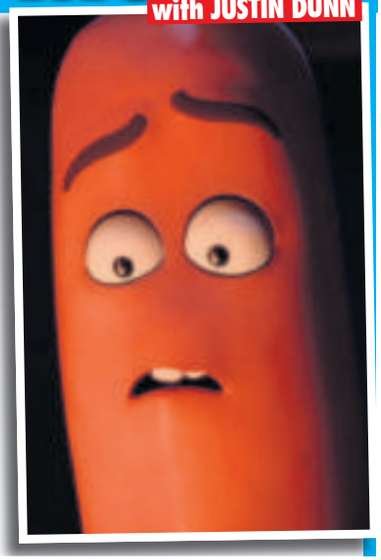
Seth gets mucky with his sausage!

MOVIES with JUSTIN DUNN



FOR once, a film that isn't a repeat or a remake and has nothing to do with superheroes – instead concentrating on the contents of your kitchen cupboards...

Sausage Party is both bizarre and brilliant – the idea that the food in your fridge can actually speak and have personalities just like our own.

The animated movie starts out in a supermarket, where we learn that what the grub on the shelves really wants in life is to be plucked off and taken home.

We follow the path of a basket of groceries led by a hotdog sausage voiced by Knocked Up's Seth Rogen and a bun voiced by Kristen Wigg of Bridesmaids fame.

It's only when they land in their new home that they suddenly realise what actually happens to them when their new human pal gets hungry – being chomped to death.

SAUSAGE PARTY

15 ★★★★

Sausage Party is the first ever 15-rated CG-animated film – and no wonder, because some of the language is surprisingly fruity. Kids' film this is definitely not.

It's raunchy, rowdy and completely insane.

Rogen stars as Frank, one of eight hot dogs in a packet at a supermarket.

Every morning all the items in the store sing a big song dedicated to the "gods" – humans – who arrive daily to deliver them to heaven.

Death

So yes, the food is unaware that when we bring them home, we chop, boil, stew, cook and eat them – while they think they're transcending to a higher plane of existence.

Frank and his bun girlfriend Brenda are thrilled when they're picked by a shopper to leave the supermarket and experience life on the outside, aka "The Great Beyond".

Just before checkout, though, a bottle of honey mustard that was returned to the store warns them that freedom isn't all it's cracked up to be.

And he jumps to his death before Frank and Brenda can save him.

What's particularly ace about Sausage Party is that it's really wound up critics with its particular stereotyping.

But anyone who loves to laugh will enjoy it.

BREAST SCENES IN MOVIE HISTORY

PEOPLE who slag off the 80s really couldn't have lived through them.

In Private School the gorgeous Phoebe Cates (from Gremlins) tries to score a really rich lad while one of her college mates teases every man in the movie.

The pud-pulling scenes are amazing. The above mentioned Lynda Weismeiser gives us full frontal nakedness while apparently happy to be spied on in the shower.

Some more fellas spy on a girl when she thinks she's safe and take pictures with the flash turned off.

And lovely Phoebe Cates is in her underwear throughout.

The female lead is Betsy Russell, who rides a horse topless.

A very naughty blast from the past!

Dear Lexi,

MY missus has suddenly gone from being a raving nympho to repelling all my sexual advances and it's driving me crazy.

I've tried everything to get our love life back on track – flowers, chocolates, romantic dinners – but nothing seems to work.

In desperation, I decided to come home early from work one day with an expensive present to see if that would get her juices flowing again.

But when I opened the front door I could hear her shouting upstairs. I flew up and saw her on all fours on the bed being pounded from behind by the window cleaner.

I went bananas, but all she did was laugh. What do you think I should do?

MH, Northampton

Lexi says...
PACK your bags or sack the window cleaner.

Dear Lexi,

I'M a 45-year-old experienced rambler and I was hiking in the Yorkshire Dales recently when I came across a young woman sobbing at the side of the path.

She had tripped over a loose boulder and cut her leg quite badly. Fortunately, I had some first aid equipment in my rucksack and was able to clean up and bandage her wound.

She was a real looker and only scantily clothed, but she explained she was a local girl just out for a quiet stroll.

When she insisted on giving me something for my help, I whipped out my rock-hard six-incher and she gave me a long and slippery blowjob.

Do you think I'll see her again?

DS, Goole

Lexi says...
KEEP going back for the same hike – you never know your luck!

Dear Lexi,

I'M a 22-year-old IT worker and I recently moved into my first house, a nice little semi in what seemed a nice, quiet area.

But my peace is shattered every other night – because all I can hear is the woman next door screaming the house down when she's being bonked by her husband.

She's a fit blonde in her forties and she packs a whopping pair of tits.

Anyway, a few weeks ago I was relaxing in the back garden when she popped her head over the fence and apologised if her noisy nookie was keeping me awake.

I jokingly said it got me horny and she instantly told me I had 30 minutes to prove it before her hubby got back from the pub.

I was round there in a flash and gave her a fast and furious fk doggy-style.

Now we're having sex at every opportunity, but I've started feeling guilty after enjoying a boozy night out with her hubby. What should I do?

DB, Wigan

Lexi says...

IT'S your choice. Sizzling sex or boozy nights.

DO YOU HAVE A SEX PROBLEM?

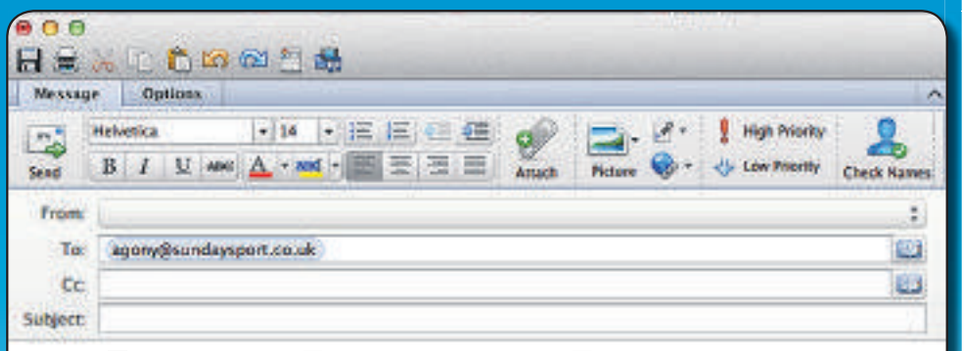
THE WORLD FAMOUS AGONY Page

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week Lexi Lowe has been reading through your letters. And here's her advice for you...



I loved raunchy romp with my pal's brother

Dear Lexi,

I'M A 19-year-old girl and I have fancied my friend's brother for ages.

He's five years older than me, so when I was 16 he was a babe magnet of 21.

Anyway, I'd put all thoughts of him to the back of my mind until recently. I'd arranged to go out with my pal, but when I arrived at her house her brother told me that she'd gone away with her parents for a few days and must have forgotten our night out.

When he saw my look of disappointment, he said he'd take me out for a few drinks and I accepted.

We cruised a few bars and ended up at a club where we danced close enough for me to feel his sturdy manhood throbbing against my tummy.

Later in the cab I put my hand on his thigh and told him that I'd always fancied him. I was pleased when he said he'd felt the same about me.

Once in the house we casually flicked on the telly to find a soft porn movie playing.

When he asked me if I'd like to watch it, I blurted out: "Why watch it – when we could be doing it?"

This brazen approach did the trick and he pulled me close and kissed me passionately.

I slid my hand down to his zip and released his huge cock, which was already stiff.

I pushed him onto the couch and set to work taking his length to the back of my throat.

I really enjoyed the musky smell of his helmet and balls, and I spent ages slurping and sucking on his big, juicy cock.

As he was about to climax I got up, ripped my knickers off and slid down on top of his rampant dick – riding him until he finally orgasmed.

I was still feeling really randy and he used his fingers to massage my clit until I screamed in ecstasy again and again.

But I'm a bit worried about my pal's reaction when she finds out. What shall I do?

TC, Kent

Lexi says...

IT will hardly be a shock after all these years you've spent lusting over him – so get stuck in, girl!

I found swinging a hole lot of fun!

Dear Lexi,

A COUPLE of months ago I agreed to go to a swinger's bash with my husband and I got dolled up in crotchless pants, peephole bra and suspenders.

As soon as we got there my hubby had his nose in some woman's ct. So I grabbed hold of the nearest cock I could find and started wanking it.

Before I knew it I had a 10-incher up my pussy, one in my hand and a third in my mouth!

Soon I was laid back on the carpet amid a group of 40 people, covered in sperm and lovejuice.

At one point I had a fanny on my face, two men spunking on my tits and one guy licking my arsehole. I really had a wild, uninhibited time.

But now I can't get off on just my hubby's cock. Is this normal?

TR, Bristol

Lexi says...

YES, but get him to fk you at the next swinger's bash – you need to reacquaint yourselves sexually.

I'm fed up of sticky cock

Dear Lexi,

MY girlfriend is an extremely willing and lustful lady who loves nothing better than giving me a long, lingering blowjob.

I think it's even better than shagging to see her blonde head going up and down on my eight-incher as I writhe in ecstasy.

It gives me an erotic sense of dominance over the entire female sex – and the shattering climaxes into her lovely mouth are absolutely blissful.

But lately the pleasure has been dulled by her insistence on experimenting with different flavours – and I'm not talking about condoms.

She keeps asking me to dip my wick in something, the stickier thebetter. Yoghurt, blancmange, melted chocolate, syrup, cake mix, peanut butter and jam – you name it and she's had a go at it over these past few weeks.

But her favourite is sherbet dip. My babe loves slowly to lick it all off before then giving my cock a second coating.

Then she gives me a good, hard suck and I shoot my load before she's licked off the last grains.

But she is putting on weight with all the extra calories she's swallowing. Is there any remedy you can suggest?

JW, Southend

Lexi says...

TELL her not to swallow. Or try athletic nookie instead – that can shed the pounds!

Hole-in-one for Golf Clap

Back Nine (Various Artists)

THE Urban Dictionary defines 'Golf Clapping' as 'exaggeratedly quiet clapping intended as a show of sarcastic support or disdain. It was apparently made popular by the late North Korean loon Kim Jong-il.

Such a response seems hardly fitting for dance duo Golf Clap's awesome Back Nine imprint label sampler.

It's pretty damn cool, to be honest, and highlights some of the hotly-tipped production crew's finest work over the last 12 months as both artists and producers.

They're Detroit-based artists and this compilation is typically Detroit in style – chilled and minimal.

Back Nine supremos Hugh Cleal and Bryan Jones (AKA Golf Clap) serve up four corkers of their own on here – my favourite being a track called Pick You Up. Its a tripped-out number with a cool sub-bass line and it makes very clever use of some, often disjointed, vocal samples.

The whole thing comes together like a winning sponge on the Great British Bake Off and you can just imagine Mary Berry slumped over a table in a club at 2am half-awake and tapping her fingers in approval.

Other highlights include Feel The Same from Eric Davignon and Vogon by Marsupials – both tracks are infectious and hypnotising. Packed with swirling synths and clap-filled beats which conjour a bit of an Italo-disco vibe.

Golf Clap are definitely a house act to keep an eye on. Refreshing stuff.

It's adventure time!

Heroes of Mighty Magic* by Twilight Force ★★★★★

YOU'VE got to be good to cut it as a power metal band these days. It's all about gripping storylines put to intense, galloping, melodies and the overall performance has to be absolutely spot-on.

It's something Sweden's Twilight Force has achieved with vigour on their latest album Heroes of Mighty Magic.

They label themselves as adventure metal – bit if, like me, your a fan of the power genre you'll love this.

Heroes of Mighty Magic is crammed with high-tempo, high octane, ballads that will stir your heart and enlight your senses. Every track is huge but there are some that really stand out for me.

Powerwind is an electrified, folk-tinged sonnet that proved almost almost too huge for my speakers.

Elsewhere, Keepers of the Fate offers up some nice mild peril and has a more sinister hook.

Frontman Chrileon's vocals are nothing short of incredible, while musically the compositions on Heroes of Mighty Magic offer a level of technical difficulty and precision that is on a par with Dragonforce.

Keep a damp towel nearby because Heroes of Mighty Magic is like a cardio workout for your soul.

INCREDIBLE!

IN FLAMES ARE BACK!

LEGENDARY melodic metallers In Flames are set to unleash two of the biggest releases of 2016!

Their huge live DVD and CD package, recorded in their home country of Sweden to a packed-out arena, Sounds From The Heart Of Gothenburg is scheduled for release on September 23rd and we'll have a review for you in a couple of weeks.

The other big news is that Scandinavia's finest also have a new album, entitled Battles, lined up for a November release – their first since 2014's awesome Siren Charms.

They've even leaked on their website their first track, The End, from the hotly anticipated album.

To check it out head over to their official site at inflames.com.

But wait... as if all of that wasn't enough they'll will also be a part of possibly the biggest metal tour of the New Year!

In Flames will be taking to the road with U.S. rock giants Avenged Sevenfold and Grammy-nominated noisemongers Disturbed!

The dates are listed below. Expect tickets to sell out fast...

Jan 10th – GLASGOW, HYDRO
Jan 12th – NEWCASTLE, METRO RADIO ARENA

TAXI drivers of London be warned, if you go to Staples Corner at night you may get to see Mica Martinez BONKING!

Busty Mica, 24, gets turned on by the idea of being caught mid-shag.

So when her and her fella parked up under a bridge in London to get frisky, the 32D Shoreditch stunna admits it was mind-blowing.

But there's much more to Mica than her outrageous love of dangerous sex.

From shunning sex toys to getting frisky in the evenings, she isn't shy to admit her raunchy bedroom habits.

We caught up with kinky Mica and spent five minutes asking her the sauciest questions we could think of...

By WENDY THOMAS
news@sundaysport.co.uk

DO YOU DRESS UP IN THE BEDROOM?

I'd much rather strip off every time – I have to do a lot of dressing up when I'm appearing on TV so in my private life I like to do the opposite.

I think that there's nothing more beautiful than just being nude anyway.

I think dressing up can sometimes take away from someone's beauty. I mean, why pretend to be something you're not?

I'm really happy with my body and I don't want to hide it away.

HAVE YOU EVER HAD RISKY SEX?

Getting frisky outdoors is a lot more dangerous and a lot more fun. I find the thrill of it really exciting.

I once had sex under a bridge near Staples Corner in London. We had pulled up in a car and we couldn't stop ourselves.

There were loads of taxis and other cars driving past and I was worried people could see in.

But that just added to the whole experience. The fear of being caught was a real turn on.

DO YOU USE SEX TOYS?

I do, but there will never be anything as good as the real thing.

I've tried toys before and although they are good, a man will always be better.

It's lucky they've not come up with anything that beats it really, or else all men would be in trouble.

Using toys on yourself just doesn't quite live up. If there isn't a man around though, then it's always a good back-up plan.

ARE YOU A FAN OF GIVING BLOWJOBS?

I don't hate it at all, but it's never been top of my list of things to do.

FIVE MINUTES WITH Mica MARTINEZ

But I like it when a fella is nice to me, so it's only fair to repay the favour.

I think that you need to have a bit of both to keep everyone happy. It's not really fair to always expect a guy to do it and then not do it yourself.

Obviously, I love receiving more – nothing feels better than when a man is working his magic down there.

DO YOU GET FRISKY IN THE EVENINGS?

Definitely! I think that at night you're both far more awake and up for it.

Especially if you've had a few glasses of wine and feel a bit horny. Then you can just free yourself of all inhibitions and do whatever comes natural.

HAVE YOU EVER HAD A THREESOME?

It's not something I've ever really thought about and I've never been in a situation where it's looked likely.

Maybe one day it will just happen, but I'm not planning it any time soon.

If it does happen, it would definitely be with two men. I fancy blokes more than I fancy women.

DO YOU LIKE TAKING CONTROL IN THE BEDROOM?

I can be a bit of a dominatrix. I love to have all the power.

My favourite position is me on top. You can make a guy just lie there while you do what you want. He's helpless.

DO YOU TRY A LOT OF DIFFERENT SEX POSITIONS?

Normally during sex I'm not limited to one. I don't mind switching it around.

Like I said, I do love being on top, but I think that a truly amazing session has a few different positions in it.

HAVE YOU TRIED BUM FUN?

I think everyone has tried it at some point. Especially when you're with a man that you love.

To be honest, I'm not a big fan. It's definitely not something I'm asking men to do.

But I would never rule it out either.

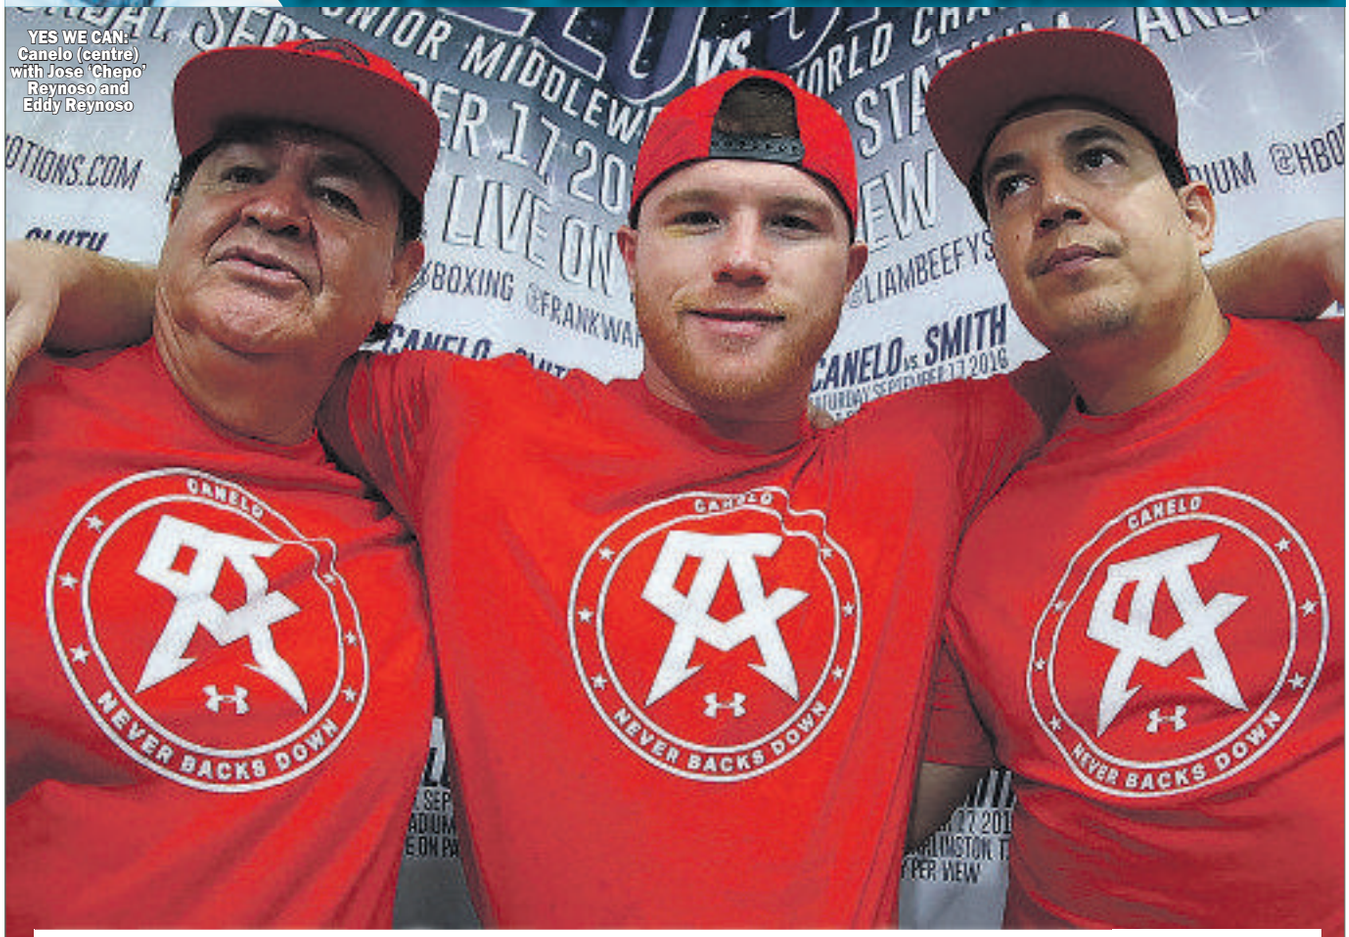
LILLO'S RINGPIECE

STEVE LILLIS' KNOCKOUT WEEKEND BOXING COLUMN



YES WE CAN: Canelo (centre) with Jose 'Chepo' Reynoso and Eddy Reynoso

BRIT OF ALRIGHT

Canelo has respect for Beefy

SAUL 'CANELO' ALVAREZ insists he is not taking Liam 'Beefy' Smith lightly in their world title clash later this month.

The Scouse idol risks his WBO super-welterweight against the Mexican pin-up in Arlington, Texas on September 17 at the magnificent AT&T Stadium.

Flame haired Alvarez loves nothing more than Brit bashing and already thumped Matthew Hatton, Ryan Rhodes and in May brutally KO'd Amir Khan.

Training

Although Smith is more than capable of giving boxing's biggest attraction a big night in the United States and Mexico he's still relatively unknown.

Speaking to Lillo's Ringpiece from his San Diego training base, Alvarez said: "In our training we have taken a huge focus on the opponents fighting style — no matter what size or weight.

"Analysing, and breaking down the fighter's approach is what we go after in the ring.

"Just because Smith isn't very well known in America doesn't diminish how tough he is as an opponent. We expect him to be very powerful, and we are training for that."

Smith, 24, won his world title last October knocking out American John Thompson and defended against Jimmy Kelly and Predrag Radosevic, but Canelo is levels above that trio.

The 26 year-old's only setback in 49 contests came on points against Floyd Mayweather and his victims include Miguel Cotto, Erislandy Lara, Austin Trout and Shane Mosley.

Manager and trainer Chepo Reynoso added: "Liam Smith offers us the opportunity to be at the top.

"His last eight fights have all been won via knock out. He is a dangerous fighter, and just because he isn't known here doesn't take away his potential.

Defence

"Smith has to be doing something right to be able to have such powerful victories under his belt, and that has given us an indicator that he is dangerous, and we have to be careful to not enter the ring too confident.

"We are working our defence specifically for this fight, because we don't want one of his punches to catch us off guard."

Smith flies to Dallas next Friday and will have eight days acclimatising and adjusting to the six hours time difference.

Canelo who turned down Gennady Golovkin to face Smith said: "I feel Saul Alvarez and has made a huge mistake here. They should have taken the Golovkin fight.

"It's a huge opportunity for Liam Smith. He'll prove he's one of the best when he fights Saul Alvarez in September. Saul Alvarez is a top, top fighter when you look at who he's fought.

"They're both good punchers, both good body punchers. Neither man will want to back down. The best fighter will win, and the loser go back to Mexico."

Quigg quick return

SCOTT QUIGG will make his ring return later this year after recovering from a broken jaw.

Lillo's Ringpiece understands former WBA super-bantamweight champion will make his comeback at Manchester Arena on November 26 when Anthony Joshua is due to headline.

Quigg, 27, hasn't boxed since his points loss against Carl Frampton in February when he sustained the injury.

He would love to avenge that only defeat in his career, but there will be plenty of other opportunities for a quick route back to the top.

SPARE RIDE: Norton

Frantastic chance for Norton on Dancing

HORSE RACING

DAVID Probert's bad luck has opened the door for Franny Norton to ride Dancing Star in tomorrow's Haydock Sprint Cup.

The Stewards' Cup winner has lost his regular pilot after he broke his wrist in a fall at Chester.

Now Norton steps in and he would be a popular winner at the Merseyside track as he comes from nearby Liverpool.

Franny is delighted to get the chance to ride a fancied horse in the Group One cavalry charge.

He said: "It's fantastic. Once a horse is on the boil they are ready to run a massive race.

"She deserves to take her a place.

"It's nice to get a ride in the race, but to get this one is an added bonus."

Norton is having just about the best of his long career and the 46-year-old has just bagged a big win on Kilmah in the Group Three Prestige Stakes.

Trainer Andrew Balding is confident he has the right jockey on board.

He said: "We just had to wait for confirmation whether Mark Johnston wanted him.

Upward

"He knows Haydock well and he's ridden good winners both for me and owner Jeff Smith in the past and he's riding better than he's ever ridden.

"The filly is in good form."

Trainer Ed Vaughan is hopeful for his filly Mehronissa who should take her chance.

He said: "if I've learned one thing during my career it is that you've got to go with the fillies when they're on an upward curve like this.

"I don't think she handled Pontefract that well and yet it was a fast tim.

"She is better on a flat, straight track with a strong gallop, which she should get on Saturday. I know Mehronissa has not been competing at the highest level but how many others in the race have won three times this season?"

One jockey that the Merseyside crowd may not be so familiar with is Alexis Badel.

The French pilot will be on Donjuan Triumphant.

Middleham Park Racing boss Tim Palin said: "He's never ridden a bad race on him and has finished in the money every time."

THE BOOKIE BASHER

THE MAN ALL LAYERS FEAR — MICK LIVESEY — WITH HIS EXCLUSIVE VIEW

MICK'S ODDS & SODS

THE transfer window slammed shut at 11pm on Wednesday and it would not have been deadline day without real drama.

LOSER

The starring role was played by Moussa Sissoko, Spurs paid a huge £30m for the Toon flop.

It was great business for Newcastle who paid just £1.8m for him, at times last season he looked expensive at that.

He was all set to sign for Everton before a dramatic late twist, Everton fans should rejoice because at that price you have got away with one.

Before Spurs fans start sticking the boot in, I fail to see how Sissoko improves Tottenham, surely you did not need him, did you? He is as much use as an ejector seat on a helicopter to this squad.

WINNER

Chelsea pulled off a master stroke and re-signed David Luiz.

It came as a shock, but what a signing this will be. They sold him two years ago for £50m and signed him back for £32m.

It is an outstanding piece of business and one that will bring results.

I tipped Chelsea pre-season for the title, if you are not on already get yourself a wheelbarrow fill it full of cash and get down to the bookies to punt Chelsea.

JOKER

Dear me, what is Jack Wilshire thinking signing for Bournemouth.

He's managed 105 Premier League games in eight years and only mustered 141 minutes last season.

There is no doubt he's talented, but he is in for a rude awakening with the Cherries. I keep hearing Bournemouth play the right way, what way is that then?

The right way to play is to win football matches.

Poor Jack is injury prone, he's going to have to run around like a mad man and he's going to have to tackle like never before.

With his injury statistics surely that is a recipe for a disaster. The poor club doctor is the one I feel sorry for, he's about to be rushed off his feet.

LOADS OF MONEY

Premier League clubs have been spending cash like its water.

13 of the 20 broke their own transfer record during this window, the total spend during the window was £1.165bn.

The Premier League outspent the rest of Europe — Serie A £590m, Bundesliga £460m, La Liga £400m and Ligue 1 £165m.

It will remain to be seen if our clubs outplay the rest of Europe in the Champions League and Europa League this season.

NEW TRANSFER RECORDS

Swansea: Borja Baston (£15.5)
Bournemouth: Jordon Ibe (£15m)
Sunderland: Didier N'Dong (£13.6m)
Hull: Ryan Mason (£13m)
West Brom: Nacer Chadli (£13m)
Watford: Roberto Pereyra (£13m)
Burnley: Jeff Hendrick (£10.5m)

KEY MAN: Jamie Vardy

GUTTED: England players after the Iceland cock-up at the Euros

THAT 0-0 draw against Iceland in the Euros still haunts every England fan, including myself.

It was lacklustre to say the least.

Let's be honest we huffed, puffed but never looked like blowing the house down.

On Sunday Sam Allardyce reign as the England manager starts, for Big Sam it needs to start with a bang. A defeat and the pressure will become intense, it is imperative that England start well under the new boss.

It is a big task, confidence levels from the players and the fans are at an all time low.

He may be nicknamed 'Big Sam' but this was not the big appointment the nation craved.

If he wins this game belief will start to return and historically England do well in qualifying campaigns. Allardyce has already gambled, there was no friendly and he opted to go straight to this match.

England have the players to win this match, Kane, Rooney, Hart, Stones, Sterling and co are all top-class on their day, but one player I'm identifying to thrive under this new regime is Vardy.

He is traditionally an Allardyce type of player, he's blessed with pace, commitment and got an eye for goal. I'm expecting him to be the man turned to in the hope of firing us to the World Cup in Russia in 2018.

We can get 7/2 Vardy to score and England to win and that's got me pumped.

Slovakia will surely come out and at least try to win this game in front of their home crowd.

England need to be on the front foot, it is a must that Hamsik is not given time on the ball.

If he's allowed time and space, he's got the ability to really hurt us.

Strangely I feel more secure under Allardyce, I don't for one minute think that will be allowed to happen.

Allardyce may not have won a trophy, he does not set the pulse racing in terms of excitement and I doubt he will ever come close to guiding England to winning a trophy, but he can steer England to victory here.

SHOUTS THE ODDS!

ON ALL THE WINNERS AND LOSERS OVER THE SPORTS WEEKEND

England's comeback starts here

WEEKEND TREBLE

Let's put the fear of God into the layers again this weekend and land the treble.

With the international break, it is not easy, but I've left no stone unturned on the international front to help you sink the bookies.

Leg 1: Look no further than Honduras who face Canada.

The Canadians are not famed for their football prowess, in fact come to think of it there not famed for anything much.

I can't see anything other than a Honduras victory here.

The bookies have priced them up at 4/5 to win tonight's game and that looks like a gift from above. Jorge Pinto's men look a cut above Canada in every single department.

I'm predicting a comfortable win for the Los Catrachos.

BET HONDURAS AT 4/5

Leg 2: I've found us a cracking punt for leg 2 courtesy of Trinidad and Tobago. They face Guatemala and I'm expecting Stephen Hart's men to sink them.

Fans of the Premier League will remember Trinidad and Tobago's captain Kenwyne Jones.

The powerful striker is still a force to be reckoned with and he should fire his team to victory.

BET TRINIDAD AT 4/5

Leg 3: I was found rubbing my eyes in disbelief when I so the price for the third selection Costa Rica.

The bookies have them at 3/4 to win away at Haiti, that is bonkers because Costa Rica are simply different class to their opposition.

Oscar Ramirez's team are a good solid outfit, well organised and have some talented individuals.

Their spine is strong, Navas in goal (Real Madrid), Duarte defence (Espanyol) and Ruiz and Campbell in attack (Sporting).

It looks like men against boys and I'm super confident leg 3 is in the bag.

BET COSTA RICA AT 3/4

The treble pays out a very respectable £75.60 to a £10 stake.

Let's get in landed, get to the pub and have a few refreshing beers courtesy of those nasty bookmakers.

MICK'S ODDS & SODS

LIMATO CAN SPRINT TO CUP VICTORY

TOMORROW at Haydock the feature event is the Group 1 Sprint Cup Stakes, worth over £147,000 to the winner.

The horse I'm expecting to bank that cheque is Limato.

Henry Candy's charge (below) ran a cracker last time out at York finishing runner-up to Mecca's Angel and is fancied to go one better here.

This four-year-old gelding does not know how to run a bad race, he's only finished out of the first two on one occasion in 12 starts.

Chalked up at 5/1 I'm advising we lump on, he is sure to give us a great run for our money.

I'd be surprised if the likes of Quiet Reflection, The Tin Man and co prove good enough to best Limato, but if you want a safety net you've got it, let's punt him each-way.

BET LIMATO AT EW 5/1 4.30

Also on the same card is the Old Borough Cup Handicap at 3.30.

I've found us a lovely 16/1 each-way punt courtesy of Gabriel's Star.

Richard Fahey's seven-year-old gelding is better than the bare form suggests.

He's got no weight to carry and a big run is expected, let's hope jockey Francis Norton is jumping off in the winners enclosure.

BET GABRIEL'S STAR EACH-WAY 16/1 3.30

GREYHOUNDS

There is fantastic greyhound racing coverage from Towcester tonight and tomorrow all live and free on the internet at www.towcester.tv

Friday's Nap - T1 Swift Gazza 22.28

Saturday Nap - T2 Sports Pundit 19.30

On Tuesday live on Sky Sports it is the Steel City Cup final live from Sheffield. Look no further than T5 Ballymac Mossjoe at 21.08.

He is currently a 5/2 shot, but I envisage him going off shorter. If he had been drawn better, I'm sure he would have been a 6/4 chance.

Bale keeps feet on the ground after Euros

Wales v Moldova

Monday, 7.45pm, on Sky Sports 2

GARETH Bale insists Wales won't act like big-time Charlies after their Euro 2016 heroics.

Getting to the semis in France has boosted expectations for the Dragons.

Now anything but qualification for the World Cup would be seen as a massive setback.

And they have a good chance in a group with Austria, Ireland, Serbia, Moldova and Georgia.

Bale insists nobody in the Wales camp is taking anything for granted.

He said: "It's great to be back together again.

"It doesn't feel too long ago we were finishing the Euros but we've got that out of our system and we're fully focused on the campaign ahead.

"Welsh football is growing on every level, whether it's us as a team or as a country hosting big events.

"It's exciting times for us all and we all look forward to it.

History

"I played the 2014 Super Cup in Cardiff before and it was an amazing experience to have my friends and family close by.

"I suppose there's a little more motivation if there needs to be any more and we'll be trying to make history in Cardiff."

Wales defender Neil Taylor reveals that even if the players are over their summer exploits, the Dragons fans are still celebrating.

The Swansea left-back said: "I'm lucky because I play for a team in Wales so it's still being talked about.

"I still get hugged in the middle of the street by women who had never watched football before this summer. That's the amazing thing."

But he insists that the players know how important it is to get their road to Russia off to a flying start.

Taylor added: "When we were in France we didn't see what it did to the country, but since being back it's been great.

"We have to put it to bed quickly though because we don't want a slow start to the qualifiers. We need to get up and running and ready.

"One thing I've learned from football is that it has a short memory."

BIG DEAL: Sissoko went to Tottenham from Newcastle for £30m

Cherries and Toon window winners

THE transfer window is closed with, in my opinion, Bournemouth and Newcastle the big winners on deadline day.

DEALS DONE UNTIL CHRIMBO

The latter's brinkmanship paid off as two of the biggest clubs in the Premier League squabbled over the services of Moussa Sissoko with the club not wavering to the end on their £30m evaluation of the player.

It is often said as a criticism of the French international that he goes missing for long periods in games and I think it is fair to say that the Everton executive and Ronald Koeman would agree that theory is not just confined to the pitch.

Lest we forget the Magpies were relegated last season and yet two of their midfield axis (also Georgino Wijnaldum) were sold for the princely sum of £55m — great business.

Newcastle, after a modest start, are 6/4 favourites for the Championship and I wonder if Rafa Benitez can be the one to get the best out of the talented Christian Atzu, who signed on Deadline Day. He played a couple of cameos for Everton on loan from Chelsea a couple of years ago.

A number of markets that have proved popular in the Championship involve a resurgent Newcastle:

Newcastle to win title and Dwight Gayle to be the top scorer: 10/1

Newcastle to gain 100 points or more in the Championship: 10/1

Newcastle to set a new championship record of 107 or more points: 16/1

BetVictor have markets on top goalscorer in the PL for all 20 teams and we have shaken up the markets in lieu of the deadline-day signings including:

Lucas Perez to be top Arsenal PL goalscorer: 10/3

Enner Valencia to be top PL scorer at Everton: 4/1

Islam Slimani to be top Leicester PL scorer: 9/2

Simone Zaza to be top West Ham goalscorer: 4/1

★Great to see Kyle Edmund become the first Brit in the third round of the US Open after his second successive straight sets win earlier in the week.

He meets the big-hitting American John Isner in the third round tonight and I think he is the value at 11/5.

Andy Murray is 6/4 joint favourite with BetVictor, at the time of writing, but should be favourite given his recent record. Novak Djokovic has struggled since his early Wimbledon defeat and a bigger danger might be Rafa Nadal who impressed when beating the useful Italian Andreas Seppi for the loss of just six games on Wednesday evening.

Johanna Konta is also through to the third round although the intense heat led to a bout of illness at the end of the second set in her second round win against Bulgarian Tsetana Pironkova. Let's hope she recovers in time to play Belinda Bencic this evening.

Konta is a worthy favourite but the Swiss girl is no mug and I expect the British No1 to win in three sets at 3/1 with BetVictor.

BOWING OUT: Keane

Rob: It's the right time to retire

Serbia v Rep Ireland

Monday, 7.45pm, on Sky Sports 2

ROBBIE Keane says he's bowing out of international football at the right time.

The 36-year-old was given a hero's send-off after scoring his 68th goal on his 146th appearance for Ireland against Oman in midweek.

That strike drew him level with German legend Gerd Muller and underlines how important he has been to Irish football.

Keano said: "It's the right time. You just know when it's the right time.

"Will I miss it? Of course I will. It's a big part of my life and my family for 18 years, so of course I will miss it, but I don't think I'll sit back and regret it."

Keane admits that he was taken aback by the farewell from the fans.

He said: "It was more about the family really, what they were feeling more so than me.

"I knew they would be emotional wrecks, and my seven-year-old lad is crazy about football."

Now boss Martin O'Neill hopes the rest of the Ireland squad understand what it takes to be a legend like Keane.

Quick

He said: "if I was Shane Long, I would be thinking, 'I'd like a part of this. Rather than being a scorer of great goals, I'd like to be a really great goalscorer'.

"I think he should look at that there and think, 'Yeah, I have got plenty of time. I'm quick, I have got a lot of things about my game' and get into the penalty box and try to do what Robbie Keane has done all his career."

Keane thinks there is plenty for Irish football fans to be positive about as they head into the World Cup qualifiers against Serbia.

He added: "I said a few words to the players after the game and told them, 'Never underestimate putting that green jersey on because it's the best feeling in the world'. It has been for me for 18 years.

"We're very fortunate that we have a group of players in there who are desperate to play for their country and turn up when given the nod. I think the future is certainly bright.

"I wish them well in the game Monday and in the qualifications. We have a great chance and a good team spirit."

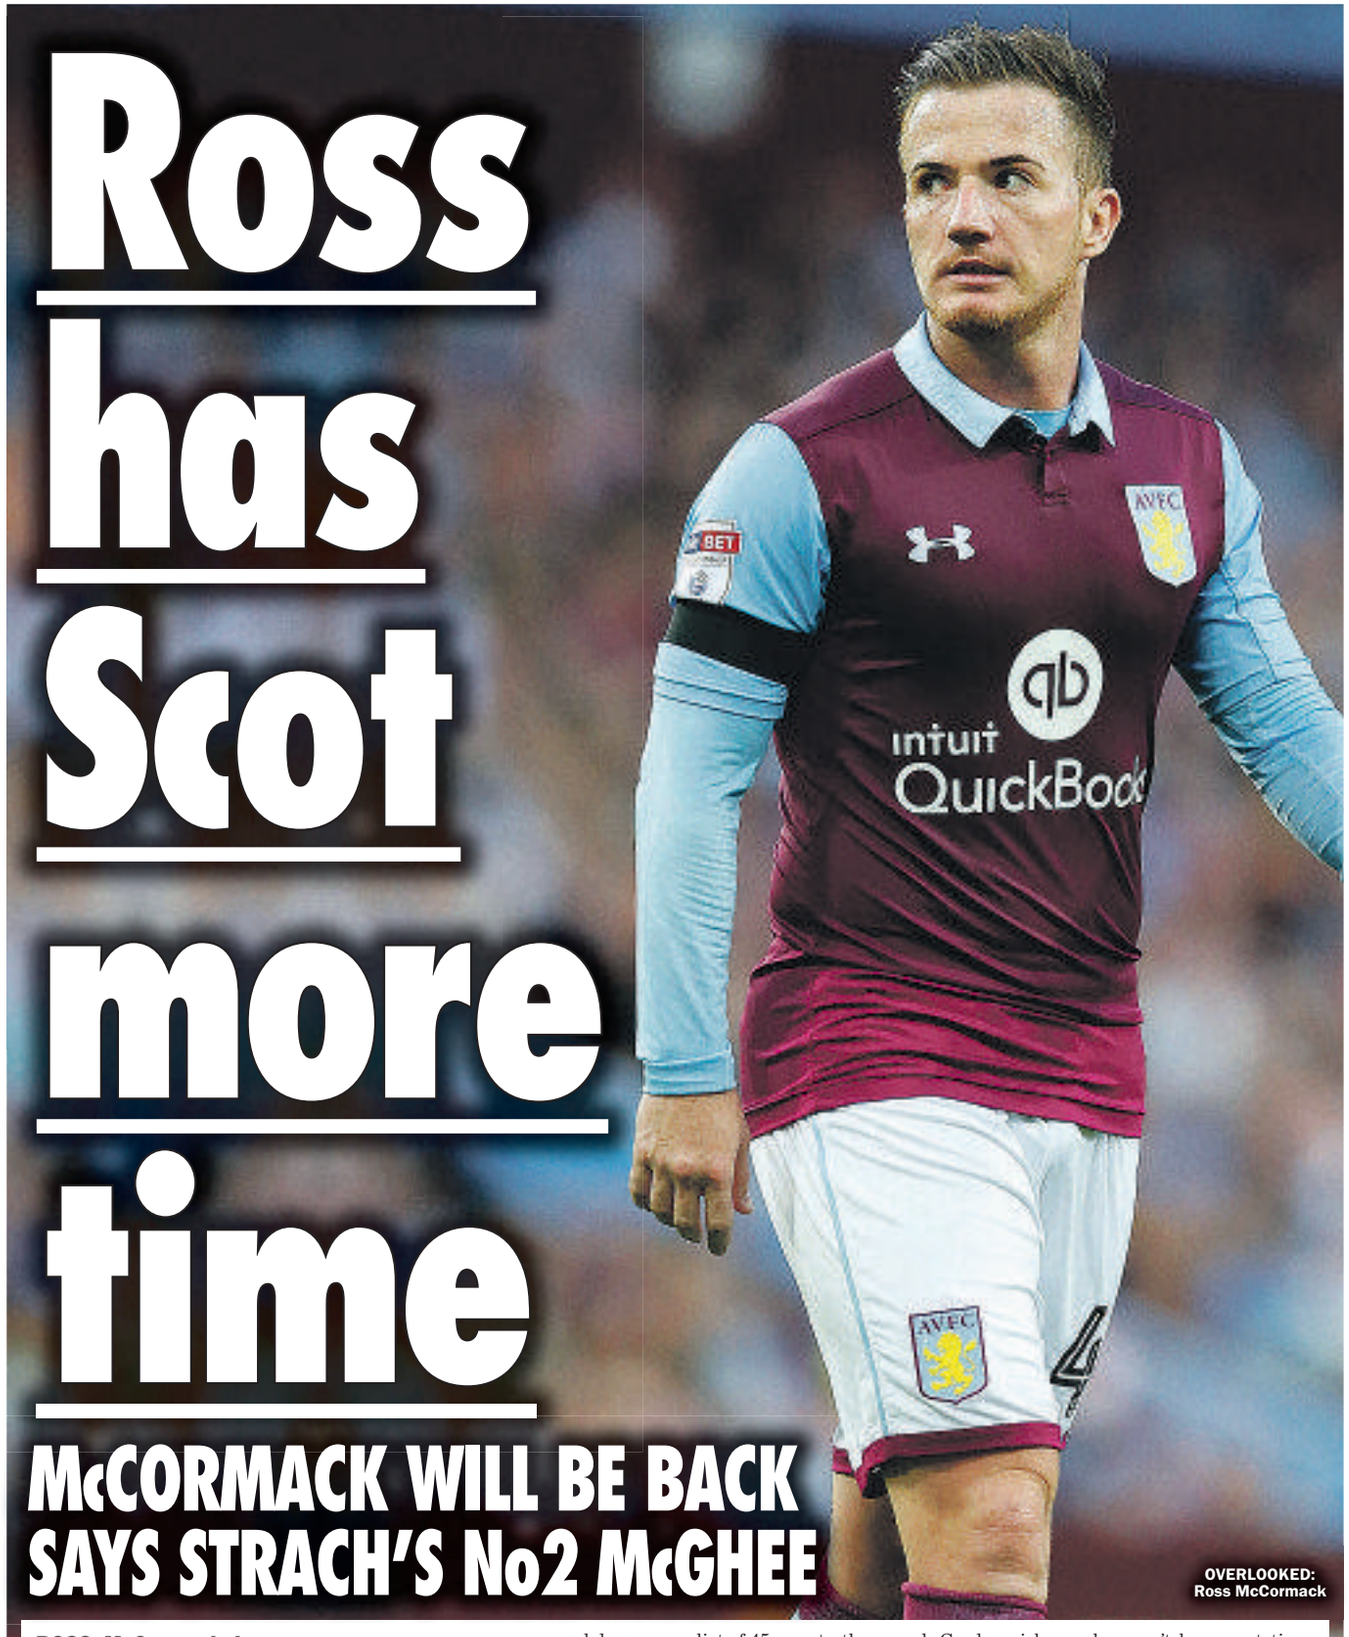
McCORMACK WILL BE BACK SAYS STRACH'S No2 McGHEE



OVERLOOKED: Ross McCormack

ROSS McCormack has been assured that his Scotland career is not over.

The Aston Villa striker has not been picked to take on Malta at the weekend.

That's despite fellow hitman Leigh Griffiths being unavailable.

Aberdeen's Tony Watt got the nod instead, prompting questions about why the £12million man has been overlooked. But Scotland No2 Mark McGhee says there's still time for the 27-year-old to fight his way back into the squad.

Malta v Scotland

Sunday, 7.45pm, live on Sky Sports 1

He said: "There is no bigger fan of Ross McCormack than me.

"From day one I have promoted Ross from when I first saw him at Motherwell.

"But what Gordon has done is sat in the summer and drawn up a list of 45 or so players we made sure we would be looking at and scouting.

"We have had Andy Watson, Andy Ritchie and myself looking at them at times.

Wondering

"Gordon, of course, and others have been out at games watching all those players so we have done our due diligence.

"And then, when it comes to the squad, Gordon picks 24.

"There are, therefore, another 20 or so players at home somewhere wondering why they are not here. Ross is one of them.

"But I would say that between now and the end of this campaign, which is ten games, we will probably turn over all 45 players.

"Next time round there will be players here who are not here.

"And players here today who aren't here next time. Players will get an opportunity.

"What Gordon has done this time is pick a group of players, balanced it for how he expects to play and the opposition.

"It's for this game and next game we will look again."

As well as Griffiths, Scotland are withouth Kieran Tierney, Kevin McDonald and James McArthur who pulled out of the squad.

BIG CALL: O'Neill

Morris all revved up for Norn Iron bow

Czech Rep v N Ireland

Sunday, 7.45, live on Sky Sports 2

CALLUM Morris is the new face in Northern Ireland's squad for their World Cup clash with the Czech Republic.

The Aberdeen stopper was born in Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

But the 26-year-old centre-back qualifies for Norn Iron through his Belfast-born dad.

It's the end of an amazing summer for Morris who still hasn't played for the Dons after picking up an injury in pre-season.

He has been in action for Aberdeen's reserves and is only expected to be on the bench, although the absence of another centre-back from the squad gives him a chance of starting.

Manager Michael O'Neill has selection headaches ahead of the visit to Prague.

He is without key defender Craig Cathcart who is out injured.

The 27-year-old has a groin strain that forced him out of Watford's defeat against Arsenal at the weekend.

Showing

O'Neill has been forced to dip into League One to call up Shrewsbury's Ryan McGivern and Matthew Lund from Rochdale.

They have been training in Austria ahead of the Czech Republic game.

Expectations are high in Northern Ireland after their excellent showing at Euro 2016. O'Neill's men were narrow 1-0 losers to Wales in the last 16 after defying the odds in getting out of their group.

But they have another pretty tough section to negotiate if they are to make it to Russia in 2018.

Germany are the main contenders but the Czechs and Norway will also be tough to beat.

Only the group winners are certain to get through, with most of the top second-placed teams also bagging a qualifying spot.

Will Grigg — of the song fame — will not be in the line-up as his wife is expecting a baby.

O'Neill said: "Will has not been omitted from the squad. His partner is expecting a baby and he has asked to be excused on this occasion.

"If it hadn't been for that, he would have been in the squad."

COUNTDOWN TO ALLARDYCE'S FIRST ENG

NEW START: Adam Lallana

New gaffer's message Ads up for Lallana

JUST win games — that's the message Adam Lallana has taken from his first meetings with England boss Sam Allardyce.

The Liverpool midfielder is one of many in the Three Lions squad who blows hot and cold. But he knows that under Allardyce, there is only one speed allowed and that's maximum.

Big Sam has a reputation for playing ugly, long-ball football — but Lallana reveals that there's been none of that so far as the team prepares to face Slovakia on Sunday.

He said: "He spoke to us about wanting to win, which is quite simple really.

"We haven't gone into too much detail about specific styles.

Buzzing

"I don't think he has a specific style. He has mentioned how, depending where we are playing and who we are playing, that the style may change.

"It sounds like a sensible plan for me. He seems adaptable which is a good quality to have when you're a manager.

"Things have been quite straightforward for me and I have been very impressed with what I've seen.

"Since I've played for England I wouldn't say we have had a specific style.

"Things change in games and the manager has made it clear to us that he expects us to take responsibility, especially when we are out on the field.

"We have not had too many meetings and he's not wanted to throw loads of information at us straight away.

"Training has been very enjoyable and the lads are buzzing.

"He has been very relaxed towards us."

Along with the likes of Dele Alli and Raheem Sterling, England's playmakers were below par at the Euros.

That's something Lallana is keen to forget.

He added: "I think what happened in the summer is irrelevant.

"We definitely need to win on Sunday.

"We are England and, as much as people put pressure on us to win games, we put the most pressure on ourselves to win.

"It is our job to do the job, not just at the weekend but throughout the whole campaign."

KICK UP T

That's what Big Sam has given England, says Dier

SAM Allardyce has shaken up England's misfiring squad already.

By PAUL THOMAS

That's the verdict of Eric Dier who was part of the Three Lions team that suffered its most worst defeat ever against Iceland.

That Euros campaign was pretty much a disaster from start to finish, with Roy Hodgson paying the price by walking away.

But now Big Sam has taken the reins and is desperate to kick off his England career with three World Cup qualifying points against Slovakia.

He cancelled a scheduled friendly last week against Croatia to concentrate on this game.

That cost the FA millions and underlines just how much Big Sam is his own man who will do whatever he sees fit to help England.

Dier admits that it hasn't been easy to shrug off the Euros but Allardyce has already given the squad a boost.

The 22-year-old Spurs midfielder said: "There's a new manager so he's going to have different opinions and different views, so it's a new start for everyone.

Fantastic

"Everyone's going to have to prove themselves again, and I'm no exception.

"I was very disappointed with how Euro 2016 went because I think that, as a group, behind the scenes at the Euros, there was a fantastic atmosphere within the players.

"You might not have seen that, but everyone was feeling very positive.

"That's what made it even more disappointing for me – that there was such a good atmosphere around the camp and that we couldn't transform that into wins on the pitch.

"In the main the group is the same and the atmosphere has carried on through to this, so if we can keep that going and just change the results then we'll be doing very well.

"Everyone's going to have to prove themselves again, and I'm no exception."

Slovakia were one of the teams England misfired against at the Euros, managing only a disappointing draw in the group stages. Hodgson copped plenty of stick for resting key players that day — a decision that backfired.

There should be a good atmosphere at the Trnava City Arena. It's a small ground that holds just under 20,000 — but they are on top of the pitch and are sure to make plenty of noise.

Dier thinks lessons have been learned from England's last clash at the Euros when the Slovaks played for a draw from the off.

Draw

Although that would be a good result again for the home side, the Spurs man thinks they will have a more attacking attitude.

And that could help England as there should be more space for the Lions attackers.

He added: "I think it'll be a completely different game to the one you saw at the Euros.

"I remember talking to one of their players when we were on the side getting a water, and he was saying 'all we need is a draw'.

"I think it'll be a bit different, this game.

"We'll be a different side with a new manager in different circumstances, so I don't think you can compare the two games at all, really."

ENGLAND BUZZING SAYS DIER

FORSTER INJURY OPENS DOOR FOR KEEPER

BIG SAM TAKES HART

Joe still England's number 1

REPRIEVE: Joe Hart

JOE Hart will keep his place in England's goal — after rival Fraser Forster was crocked in training.

The new Torino keeper was facing a real fight to stay as Three Lions No1 for Sunday's World Cup qualifier against Slovakia after being ditched by Man City.

It could have gone either way with Southampton stopper Forster in line to take over between the sticks after Hart's poor displays in the Euros.

Support

But the big man has gone back to St Mary's after hurting his arm in training.

Although Hart won't be happy to see a teammate injured, it's a rare boost for the 29-year-old.

He has also received support from his former boss at Man City, Roberto Mancini. The Italian is baffled why Hart is suddenly not wanted by current Etihad boss Pep Guardiola.

By JOHN ANTHONY

The Spaniard reportedly doesn't think he can perform the sweeper-keeper role wants.

Mancini said: "I do not know why he has done it but every tactician has his own ideas.

"Torino have completed a great signing and has secured a reliable goalkeeper.

"Despite his age, I still believe that Hart can keep improving, especially because the coaches over here are very good.

"His experience will definitely help him."
